I. About UNFPA

UNFPA, the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), is an international development agency that works to deliver a world where every pregnancy is wanted, every child birth is safe and every young person’s potential is fulfilled.

UNFPA is the lead UN agency that expands the possibilities for women and young people to lead healthy sexual and reproductive lives. To read more about UNFPA, please go to: UNFPA about us

II – Service Requirements/Terms of Reference (ToR)

Objectives and scope of the Services

- Background information:
- Demographic Dividend: Egypt is a middle income country with a population structure surging in the number of young people (i.e. youth bulge). More than 60% of the population is under the age of 30 and 40% is between the ages of 10 and 29 (Survey of Young People in Egypt, 2014).
- Unmet Need for Family Planning: The SRH attitudes and practice of this age group are critical in stabilizing Egypt’s population growth and accelerating uptake of family planning services. SRH services adequate to the needs and practices of young people include premarital counselling and examination, access to family planning, and education including awareness of STIs and HIV. The Egypt Demographic Health Survey (2014) figures indicate that the adolescent birth rate in Egypt reached more than 56 births per 1000 women with youth aged 20-24 years holding the highest birth rate across all age groups at 213 births per 1000 women. Adolescents’ (aged 10-19) and youth’s (aged 20-24) unmet need for family planning reached about 9% and 11% respectively in 2014, both averaging lower than Egypt’s National unmet need statistic of 13%. The prevalence of family planning methods use is 20% among married adolescent women aged 15-19 and is doubled for young married women aged 20-24 at 42%.
- Inadequate Knowledge and Measured Discrepancies in SRH Education: The knowledge and awareness of HIV/AIDS amongst young people demonstrates huge discrepancies seen in recent surveys with youth. The Survey of Young People in Egypt (2014) indicates that only 14% of young people know all modes of HIV transmission while the EDHS (2014) results indicate that about 50% of adolescents (aged 10-19 and 68% of youth aged 20-14) know all modes of HIV transmission. These accounts of knowledge about HIV/AIDs and STIs as well as youth’s high exposure to risk factors and risky behaviours position this age group among the most vulnerable to HIV/AIDS key affected populations. As a result, these figures on young people’s fertility, family planning utilization and knowledge of STIs indicate the need to provide SRH and population education tailored for the demand of this age group.

24. OFFICIALS NOT TO BENEFIT: The Contractor warrants that it has not and shall not offer to any representative, official, employee, or other agent of UNFPA any direct or indirect benefit arising from or related to the performance of the Contract or of any other contract with UNFPA or the award thereof or for any other purpose intended to gain an advantage for the Contractor.

ANNEX II. TERMS OF REFERENCE

Organizing a Hack 4 Health Generating Youth-led Solutions to Youth Friendly Health Services

BACKGROUND

- Demographic Dividend: Egypt is a middle income country with a population structure surging in the number of young people (i.e. youth bulge). More than 60% of the population is under the age of 30 and 40% is between the ages of 10 and 29 (Survey of Young People in Egypt, 2014).
- Unmet Need for Family Planning: The SRH attitudes and practice of this age group are critical in stabilizing Egypt's population growth and accelerating uptake of family planning services. SRH services adequate to the needs and practices of young people include premarital counselling and examination, access to family planning, and education including awareness of STIs and HIV. The Egypt Demographic Health Survey (2014) figures indicate that the adolescent birth rate in Egypt reached more than 56 births per 1000 women with youth aged 20-24 years holding the highest birth rate across all age groups at 213 births per 1000 women. Adolescents' (aged 10-19) and youth's (aged 20-24) unmet need for family planning reached about 9% and 11% respectively in 2014, both averaging lower than Egypt's National unmet need statistic of 13%. The prevalence of family planning methods use is 20% among married adolescent women aged 15-19 and is doubled for young married women aged 20-24 at 42%.
- Inadequate Knowledge and Measured Discrepancies in SRH Education: The knowledge and awareness of HIV/AIDS amongst young people demonstrates huge discrepancies seen in recent surveys with youth. The Survey of Young People in Egypt (2014) indicates that only 14% of young people know all modes of HIV transmission while the EDHS (2014) results indicate that about 50% of adolescents (aged 10-19) and 68% of youth aged 20-14) know all modes of HIV transmission. These accounts of knowledge about HIV/AIDS and STIs as well as youth's high exposure to risk factors and risky behaviors position this age group among the most vulnerable to HIV/AIDS key affected populations. As a result, these figures on young people's fertility, family planning utilization and knowledge of STIs indicate the need to provide SRH and population education tailored for the demand of this age group.

YOUTH FRIENDLY HEALTH SERVICES

Improving youth outcomes and youth empowerment in autonomous decision making is directly related to helping young people make informed decisions about their sexual and reproductive health (SRH). Designing youth friendly health services (YFS) within spaces that establish safety for youth can assist in achieving such improvement.<sup>2</sup> Youth-friendly health services must be accessible, culturally acceptable, gender sensitive, and appropriate for young people. Choosing the appropriate location to provide YFS is key. Taking into account the unique needs of youth, YFS must be provided intentionally at the right place, at the right time, at the right price, and delivered in the right style. Youth friendly clinics (YFCs) should deliver an essential, standardized, and comprehensive package of services to the entire target group. Trained and motivated health care providers who are technically competent and know how to communicate with youth, without being patronizing or judgmental, should be hand-selected to deliver the effective services.

<sup>2</sup> Services include premarital counseling and examination, FP, management of STIs, and pubertal problems such as menstrual irregularities, as well as recommended laboratory investigations and ultrasound. All of the above services are supposed to be delivered in a youth friendly manner, ensuring client privacy and confidentiality.

Currently, UNFPA provides health services for young people on reproductive health, gender based violence (GBV) including harmful practices prevention like female genital mutilation (FGM) and child marriage, at Ministry of Health and Population primary health clinic (PHC) units. Through this service delivery modality, UNFPA aims to overcome the challenges faced by youth by providing YFS through civil society supported clinics and teaching hospitals due to stigma that contributes to limited young people's utilization.

UNFPA recognizes the urgent and important focus of specialized services and looks to engage youth in the development of such. UNFPA seeks to support young people, interested in generating innovative, sustainable solutions focused and catered for the health and wellbeing needs of youth. The goal is to improve youth participation and to foster communities that are attractive and well-equipped to deliver efficient services to young people.
